WEB SUMMIT LISBON · 9 TO 12 NOVEMBER 2026

Confrmo is exhibiting at Web Summit 2026 as part of the Irish Startup Network

The UK and Irish identity company, chaired by Emmet Memery, joins this year's Irish Startup Network cohort in Lisbon from 9 to 12 November, showing banks and platforms how to prove the real person is present at every login, payment and approval.

Manchester and Dublin, October 2026. Confrmo, the identity company that verifies the human rather than the password, is exhibiting at Web Summit 2026 as part of the Irish Startup Network cohort. The team will be in Lisbon for all four days, taking meetings with banks, credit unions, payment providers, fintechs, platforms and public-sector organisations across the UK and Ireland.

What Confrmo does

Most security today proves access, not presence. A correct password, a one-time code or a phone that is already signed in says nothing about who is actually holding it. Confrmo checks the person. Each check weighs six independent signals at once, including facial verification that reads more than 760 micro-features, active and passive liveness that resists replays and deepfakes, and the integrity of a paired, trusted device. Every confirmed action is signed and recorded, so the business has an audit-ready record of who approved what, and when. The technology is the subject of 36 UK patent applications, pending as of 9 October 2026.

> "A correct password and the right phone no longer prove who is there. Fraudsters have learned to borrow both. Confrmo ties every approval to the real person, at the moment it happens, and gives the business a signed record of it. We are going to Lisbon to show UK banks and platforms what that looks like on a live phone, and to start the integration conversations that follow."

Part of the Irish Startup Network

As a member of the 2026 Irish Startup Network cohort, Confrmo has a stand on the Irish Startup Island in the startup exhibition on one day of the event, full event passes for the team and the chance to apply for the PITCH competition, the Startup Showcase and Mentor Hours. On the stand, the team will demonstrate the platform end to end on a live phone.

Why it matters in the UK and Ireland

Fraud has moved past stolen passwords to taken-over devices, talked-into payments and deepfakes. UK banks now share the cost of reimbursing authorised push payment fraud, while the platforms and payment companies headquartered in Ireland face the European Digital Identity Wallet and the EU's single anti-money-laundering rulebook. Confrmo plugs into the websites, apps and payment flows businesses already run, with no rip-and-replace.

> "Irish businesses carry a responsibility well beyond our own shores, because so much of Europe's digital economy is run from here. The question every one of them now faces is simple: is the person approving this payment or this login really who they say they are? Confrmo answers that at the moment it matters. We are going to Lisbon to sit down with Irish banks, fintechs and platforms and show them how quickly it can be switched on."
